Cole Winnefeld’s winning spirit has brought this young sports fan very far in his fight against cancer.
Dear Friends,

In what seemed like a never ending story, winter has finally ended and spring has swept in. So too, has Ronald McDonald House New York’s very robust family programming that continues to assist our families who seek enrichment and support programs while staying in New York City undergoing cancer treatment.

I am pleased to announce the appointment of Michael N. Bapis as chairman of the Greek Division, since the untimely passing of Mrs. Nikki Sideris, founder and chairman of the Greek Division in 2011. For the last several years, he has served on The Greek Division Committee and enthusiastically looks forward to this leadership opportunity. Please join me in congratulating Mr. Bapis.

In January, we were saddened with the news of the passing of two wonderful long time volunteers, Jef Campion and Christine Taylor. Their service to this charity was exemplary and their absence will be profound. In this issue, you will also be introduced to Board Member James E. Fitzgerald, Jr., whose decade-long involvement has led to increased stewardship of our organization’s finances.

In our family profile you will hear the story of Cole Winnefeld, who has visited the House more than 60 times since his diagnosis of cancer. His family’s story really brings home why the support of our mission is so important to the kids and families that we proudly serve.

We also highlight the importance of partnership in this issue. Through the extraordinary efforts of partners like RBC Capital Markets, the Garden of Dreams Foundation, the New Yorkers, and many others, we have been able to carry on the tradition of Skate with the Greats, bringing New Yorkers up close and personal on the ice with their favorite NHL heroes. Our families have recently returned from their annual trip to the Hole in the Wall Gang Camp and the highlights show exactly how the Ronald McDonald House Charities theme of “better together” can make a difference.

Please support our annual Team Ronald Heroes event, where our volunteers have been working hard to raise awareness and much-needed funding.

2014 will be a huge year of growth with increased outreach to our hospitals and continued expansion outside the walls of our current facility. As more New Yorkers continue to rally behind our mission and help us to grow and thrive, we hope that you will join us as we expand and grow throughout the community to provide that special brand of hospitality that only Ronald McDonald House New York can provide.

Sincerely,

William T. Sullivan

Parents Pantry

Parents Pantry

In Memoriam

In just two years, our Parents’ Pantry program has racked up the support of 53 schools and community groups throughout the tri-state area, helping to provide a new level of support to our families. Coordinated by our Operations Department, Parents’ Pantry supporters provide canned goods, dried foods, toiletries, and other paper products to help our resident families offset the cost of groceries.

As a result of this outpouring of support, families staying at Ronald McDonald House New York saved an estimated $250,000 in grocery expenditures. Created by Board member Terry Borin, the Parents’ Pantry program has become a runaway success.

“I am grateful for all the support we’ve gotten from schools and the community in the last two and a half years,” said Mrs. Borin. “Our families, many of whom are on limited budgets, really appreciate all the donated items; and we are all touched by the initiatives students and parents alike have shown by running drives of their own to further help our families. My hope is that every year, more schools will choose to get involved in the Parents’ Pantry Program and it will continue to be a source for our families at this difficult time in their lives.”

Leslie Barrett

Leslie Barrett has served as an active volunteer on behalf of Ronald McDonald House New York since 2003, lending her time and talents as a member of the Tuesday Night Team.

As the Development department expanded, Leslie became invaluable, exerting her leadership skills as a fundraising event volunteer coordinator. In support of our events, Leslie handled staff registration, greeted guests and customer service inquiries from attendees.

When the Board of Associates was being formed in 2012, Leslie joined, serving as the head of the House Service Committee: This committee manages and facilitates Board of Associates members’ commitment to sponsor a minimum of 12 dinners to resident families per year.

Working as a part of the theatre industry, Leslie has used her business influence and vast network to rally support for our families. In addition to ticket donations to Broadway shows, she has also brought the magic of theatre to the House thanks to special appearances by actors from “Wicked” and “Mary Poppins.”

Leslie has been an active fundraiser for many events including supporting the Team Ronald annual fundraiser, Masquerade and theatre benefits, as well as running as the New York City Marathon as a part of Team Ronald’s endurance team.

Kendall Carter

Kendall Carter has been an active member of the Ronald McDonald House New York day team since she began volunteering in the playroom in 2008. Guests of the House can rely on the day team volunteers to visit faithfully on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons to work on popular projects including film school and “Weird Science.”

“ Weird Science” allows the children to enjoy the beauty of hands-on discovery via science projects in a fun and exciting way. It is not uncommon to hear shrieks of joy and laughter coming from the playroom after a particularly successful project involving volcanoes or egg cart racing.

In addition to her volunteer commitment on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Kendall is always happy to pitch in and help with other House activities including the annual Kid’s Fun Run, the Annual Team Ronald Heroes event, the celebration of our 35th Anniversary, and more.

Louise Tashjian

Louise Tashjian has been a volunteer at Ronald McDonald House New York since 1988, where she has been providing smiles and encouragement as one of the coffee and cookie ladies.

Louise and her coffee and cookie lady partners arrive every Tuesday and Thursday shortly after noon. They then proceed to the dining room and begin their set up of piling a few tables together, brewing a pot of coffee, making a pitcher of juice and putting out a platter of cookies. The coffee and cookie ladies then welcome all to sit down and enjoy these offerings.

Parents feel like they have a grandmotherly figure that they can confide in who offers a bit of respite and a chance to just be at ease. Sometimes it is just a moment for coffee and a chat, and at other times, Louise can be seen painting the young girls’ fingernails and listening to their stories.

Louise is committed to helping the children and families who have made Ronald McDonald House their home during this most difficult time in their lives. She is so dedicated to doing what she can to help lessen the families’ burdens. We are grateful to Louise for her commitment to helping our families, and we celebrate that commitment with this year’s Hope Award.

Jef Campion

Jef Campion (September 10, 1961 - January 17, 2014) was a colleague of the Ronald McDonald House New York for more than 20 years, providing invaluable leadership to our volunteer corps, Team Ronald. He originally joined as part of the Volunteers for Recreation Department to raise money and host activities for the families before transitioning to become a regular volunteer, serving on the Thursday night team. Jef eventually became a team leader and was awarded the Hope Award in 2008. For the past three years, Jef served as co-chairperson of the Annual Team Ronald volunteer fundraiser event, which has consistently raised $500,000 in cash and in-kind gifts to help support the families.

He has always been a strong supporter of the Ronald McDonald House and a familiar face at many fundraising as well as programming events throughout the year. He will always have a place in our hearts and within the rich history of our organization.

Christine Taylor

Christine Taylor (December 4, 1945 – January 17, 2014) joined the Ronald McDonald House New York volunteer corps more than seven years ago, she brought with her bundles of energy and a unique perspective: Christine was a former educator and a cancer survivor who knew how to reach her students intellectually and emotionally.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, Christine introduced a new program called “Weird Science” that empowered resident children and their siblings through the gift of learning and discovery. In addition to “Weird Science,” Christine brought her love of film and the art of making movie magic to the House. Together with staff from the Hole in the Wall Gang Camp, Christine helped the kids produce a multiple feature films including “Journey to Planet Wannabe.” She was awarded the Hope Award for her volunteer service in 2011.

We are thankful for the time that Christine gave to our families and to all who have been touched by her brilliance, kindheartedness, generosity and love.

Terese Matrullo

Terese Matrullo has been an active member of the Monday Night Team since she began volunteering at Ronald McDonald House New York in 2003. As a part of a team that is known for putting on spectacular activities like carnival, sock hop or western ho-down events, you can always count on Terese to be in the midst of the adventure with a can-do spirit de corps. In addition, Terese is an active on-call volunteer, assisting with Ronald McDonald House New York volunteer activities whenever she is needed.

In her workplace, Terese promotes “Share A Night” by asking her fellow co-workers to be involved and sponsor a family’s stay. Terese also promotes the Annual Team Ronald Heroes event by being a top seller of tickets and raffles for the event, which provides the resources and funding for the volunteer-led programs that benefit the families.

Whichever it is sitting and talking to a family after a long day in the hospital, or promoting the mission of the House to fellow co-workers, Terese is an inspiration to all. She makes everyone feel good about the magic of the Ronald McDonald House.
Cole Winnefeld: Cancer Warrior

When you think of the term “road warrior,” one wouldn’t necessarily associate it with the image of a 10-year-old redheaded young man from southern Indiana. But once you hear Cole Winnefeld’s story, you won’t think of anything but. As a matter of fact, drop the “road” part and simply think “warrior.” In just five years, he’s made more than 60 trips to New York City from his hometown of Bedford, and Cole’s battle against cancer is still raging.

Diagnosed with neuroblastoma around Easter of 2009, the family began making their trips to New York City by that summer. Neuroblastoma is a cancer of the nerve-endings, and it’s diagnosed in approximately 700 children per year. Aggressive and invasive, a diagnosis of this illness can have a devastating effect on the entire family.

“Cole quit eating and then he would wake up at night and cry and say that his legs hurt. And that was kind of the start of it all,” said his mother Carol.

Doctors conducted x-rays, but results didn’t show anything conclusive. Within two to three months, Cole’s parents realized that something still wasn’t right and they sought a diagnosis.

“We went on a Disney cruise and Cole fell off of the bunk bed. We thought that he’d done something to his back area because he was limping so badly. At that point, they did the x-ray, and I actually saw the mass on the screen. It was the size of a softball,” recalled Mrs. Winnefeld.

Since his diagnosis, Cole has received nine rounds of high dose chemotherapy, 12 rounds of low dose chemotherapy and radiation therapy. His treatment has progressed to include 3F8 therapy using mouse antibodies to find the cancer and kill its cells by cutting off their oxygen supply, and most recently, the humanized version. Cole in currently enrolled in phase 1 of a new clinical trial, and his family is hoping that this new treatment will be the thing that eradicates his cancer for good.
In the meantime, Cole takes it all in with a brave smile as he considers Ronald McDonald House New York his home away from home. “When Cole first started coming here, he was a little boy of about 5-years-old. He was upset. His family was upset and rightfully so,” said Chaplain Cheryl Fries, director of Family Support. “After the first year, Cole started being more engaging and playing, talking, making eye contact and playing with other kids. I think he was starting to feel more comfortable, like this was part of his extended family. Coming here became something that Cole looked forward to doing instead of something that was scary, or uncomfortable or new to him.”

While staying at the Ronald McDonald House, Cole has grown and learned alongside other children with cancer, many of whom are also battling neuroblastoma or other illnesses including leukemia and retinoblastoma. He spends his time in the House’s Lower Level Lounge, using the AOL Media Lounge to connect with friends and family back home. Due to his treatment schedule, he receives his education via home schooling.

A True New Yorker

New York City and its traditions have become as much a part of Cole’s life as he has become a part of the lives of those associated with the local Ronald McDonald House. A major sports fan, his two favorite teams are the New York Rangers and the Yankees.

This past winter, Cole enjoyed a once-in-a-lifetime experience when he received an official Rangers jersey and skated with NHL legends at the Madison Square Garden. He also received an official Rangers jersey and a trip to the home of the New York Knicks. He was upset. His family was upset and rightfully so,” said Mrs. Winnefeld. “When Cole first started coming here, he was a little boy of about 5-years-old. He was upset. His family was upset and rightfully so,” said Chaplain Cheryl Fries, director of Family Support. “After the first year, Cole started being more engaging and playing, talking, making eye contact and playing with other kids. Raising money on behalf of the house through a number of activities including their annual employee golf outing, the organization has pledged $60,000. A special room naming reception was held in their honor this past winter.

Jill Hennessy

Whether visiting with her husband and two adorable sons or passing through with her guitar, actress/singer Jill Hennessy’s star power is undeniable. Joining us for a set after dinner, the highlight of the evening was hers and our residents’ edition of “Let it Go” from Disney’s Frozen, the “Hokey Pokey” and “Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star.”
Hole in the Wall Gang Camp

With the help of our partners, Ronald McDonald House New York is able to meet the unique needs of our families wherever they are in the treatment process. Our partnership with The Hole in the Wall Gang Camp is a perfect example of how our teams work seamlessly to provide our families with a fellowship and enrichment experience like no other. The brainchild of revered actor Paul Newman, Hole in the Wall Gang Camp’s mission is to help children battling serious illnesses experience the joys of childhood. Each spring, up to 12 families (including siblings) sign up for a busy weekend at the organization’s residential camp center in Ashford, Connecticut. Families stay in dormitory-style rooms and are served hot meals as well as Newman’s Own-brand snacks.

Prior to visiting the camp, each family undergoes a health screening by the Hole in the Wall Gang Camp staff to assess their specific medical needs, and to ensure that the appropriate support will be available on-site in the camp’s infirmary.

From their Friday arrival to Sunday departure, our families are treated to non-stop encouragement as they embrace the powerful act of living in the moment. With the help of a “Family Pal,” Ronald McDonald House New York guest families spend the weekend navigating the indoor camp fire event, arts & crafts activities, fishing on the lake, mini-golf, archery, the music studio, a 24-ft. rock wall, zip lining, a wheelchair accessible tree-house and much more.

On Saturday evening, families perform for their friends during “Stage Night” with original skits and other works of art. With the help of a “Family Pal,” each family is assigned a special event, society members work hand-in-hand with Ronald McDonald actors to help our families experience the moment. With the help of our partners, Hope and Healing Society members also have the additional option of giving more of their resources in support of our families. Whether sponsoring a dinner, hosting a day of service, sponsoring a room or hosting a special event, society members work hand-in-hand with Ronald McDonald staff to make sure our families are given the care and support they need on a daily basis.

Ronald McDonald House® New York is pleased to introduce the Hope and Healing Society, a membership society that encourages purposeful giving on multiple levels. Whether sponsoring a dinner, hosting a day of service, sponsoring a room or hosting a special event, society members work hand-in-hand with Ronald McDonald staff to make sure our families are given the care and support they need on a daily basis.

The Tree of Life wall sculpture continues to flourish with new leaf additions. Each leaf may be purchased for $2,500. Your generosity is greatly appreciated and will help us continue to offer services to families arriving today, tomorrow and in the years ahead.

20th Annual “Skate with the Greats” Raises $1 Million

There’s very little that can rival the magic that happens when the NHL’s legendary New York Rangers hit the ice; especially when it’s in celebration of the annual Skate with the Greats charity event to benefit Ronald McDonald® House New York. In its 20th year, Skate with the Greats once again took place on Friday, January 17th at New York City’s famed Rink at Rockefeller Center, raising more than $1 million.

Originally established with the support of alumni greats and longtime volunteers Rod Gilbert and Brian Leetch, the event included Ron Duguay, Pete Stemkowski, Nick Fotiu, Adam Graves, Ron Greschner, Stéphane Matteau, Brian Mullen, Gilles Villeneuve, and Mike Richter also joined the families and supporters of Ronald McDonald House New York for the event. The Rangers participation is made possible through a partnership with the Garden of Dreams Foundation, a non-profit charity that works closely with the Rangers and all areas of Madison Square Garden to make dreams come true for children facing obstacles.

This year’s lead sponsor was RBC Capital Markets, with additional sponsorship from Garden of Dreams Foundation, Brookfield Office Properties, Bloomberg, Zurich, PwC, Couture Capital, Mutual of America, Sanford C. Bernstein & Co, LLC and Steven Bensinger.

“Giving back to the community is ingrained in RBC Capital Markets’ corporate culture,” said Deborah Freer, U.S. COO of RBC Capital Markets. “RBC’s partnership with Ronald McDonald House has spanned seven years and our investment in the House goes beyond Skate with the Greats, taking on a much more personal element.”

Attendees enjoyed ice skating with the Rangers on the iconic Rockefeller Center rink; a live and a silent auction with much sought-after sports memorabilia, concluding with an autograph session with some of their favorite Rangers players.

Volunteer Recognition Dinner
The volunteer recognition dinner was once again held last November at the New York Athletic Club, celebrating the work of the many dedicated individuals who give of their time and resources in support of our families. RBC Capital Markets and the NYPD were both named as recipients of the Distinguished Community Service Awards. Board members Richard O’Reilly, MD and Shelly Friedman were also presented with awards for 30 years of service. Our special guests for the evening were Ronald McDonald House New York founders Fred and Fran Hill, who gave an inspiring word to the audience.

Photo Flashback: On Friday, November 4th, 2011, our friends at the New York Rangers Organization, Garden of Dreams Foundation, RBC Capital Markets, the Heller Foundation, Zurich, The International Securities Exchange and the National Hockey League Cancer Fund were on-hand for the ribbon cutting ceremony to announce the opening of our Rangers Room.
